Buick Riviera. Made in U.S.A.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick.

Like this 1966 Riviera Gran Sport.

If there are two things the romantic Italians love, one of them is automobiles. Dashing, dramatic automobiles.

Now, some people think Italy has a monopoly on the red-blooded cars that make hearts beat faster and the adrenalin flow.

But those people have another think coming.

The tuned car is here. Con brio.

Where the tuned car comes from. Well, from the sunny slopes of far-off Flint, Michigan, if you want to be precise. But really it comes from the hearts of people who dearly love a great road machine.

The tuned car is a blend of styling, performance, ride and handling—all working together in harmony. It means the Riviera lives up to its looks, and that's going some. Under the hood, you have a 340-hp Wildcat V-8. The exhibitration it turns out is harnessed to the road via a suspension that gives you thorough control, yet a firmly comfortable ride.

We confess that we give the Riviera more than a little foreign flair, when it comes to designing it. So we exuberantly tune in Latin fire and grace.

But we never forget American practicality. And so the Riviera offers you a choice of bucket seating or six-passenger bench seating. (Or. for that matter, a combination: a new notch-back seat that converts into semi-buckets is available.)

Help keep America safe. When you first see the '66 Riviera, you might be forgiven for overlooking certain added attractions. Such as all the safety equipment that comes standard: seat belts front and rear; shatter-resistant inside mirror; outside rearview mirror; padded dash and sun visors; dual-speed wipers and washers; backup lights. (Which make seeing where you're going easier, even when you're going where you've been.) We overlook nothing to make your driving more pleasant. Nothing at all.

Drive the tuned car. And be glad Flint is in your country. The way to wangle an introduction to the tuned car is simply to visit your nearby Buick dealer.

You'll quickly discover that this '66 Riviera is as sleek and dramatic as any Roman chariot could possibly be. At the same time, you'll be pleased to know that it continues the Buick tradition of comfort and solid dependability.

And besides that, all the labels are in Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

1966 Buick. The tuned car.

DODGE DIVISION

A Salute to the OBC Pioneers

By NORRIS ANDERSON

It was the late Sam Butz, then sports editor of the Jacksonville Times-Union back in the thirties who wrote: "The value of the Orange Bowl Festival cannot be told in 25 words, or in 25,000 words. What the Orange Bowl can mean to Florida is beyond comprehension."

Sam's forecast of long ago made Socrates look like a bumble brain, albeit he never even scratched the surface.

Way back then, a far-sighted group of Miamians met to devise ways to lure more tourist green and bring more national publicity to the area. That was the start.

At that meeting of yesteryear were the original Orange Bowl Committee members — Charles F. Baldwin, Oscar E. Dooly, J. Avery Guyton, F. E. Kitchens, Robert Pentland, Jr., Will M. Preston, M. Lewis Hall, Sr., Van C. Kussrow, Paul H. Marks, W. P. Mooty, S. Grover Morrow, Stuart W. Patton, W. Keith Phillips, Sr., William G. Ward, Jack Bell, A. F. Kasper, Arthur A. Ungar and E. E. Seiler.

They didn't need a stepladder to find their star. Starting from the ground up, they climbed by sheer hard work in building a lasting, working monument to the most beneficial civic project in The South. They formed the Orange Bowl Committee, an organization of unselfish, hard-working men who have developed not only a game but a Festival of two great games and 14 other events.

No other bowl has so many events or is so widely publicized over such a long period (23 days). Even the Olympic Games will not equal our time on national television or the written word in the papers.

As another glittering show unfolds, let's give a hand to those hearty pioneers whose vision made it all possible.

E. E. Seiler, one of those pioneers and executive director of the Orange Bowl Committee, is bustling around here tonight. Seiler can still plow a field without a horse. A man of kinetic fury, this imaginative genius and President Robert C. Hector and their Orange Bowl Committee are producing the second night game in bowl history. Naturally, the OBC pioneered this great celestial adventure. They have a magic alchemy on these things.

Up in the pressbox tonight, doing the color on a national Broadcasting Company telecast that will reach 40 million people, is a gentleman named Paul Christman. Paul, who still looks younger than most pro quarterbacks, was the passing wizard for Missouri against Georgia Tech when the Orange Bowl Festival was just a pup. At his side doing the play-by-play, Curt Gowdy, an ex-basketball hawk at the University of Wyoming.

Every press wunderkind east of the Mississippi (and some west) are in the pressbox. Several tens of milhons of words will tell the Miami story around the free world. Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner, president of the Football Writers of America, is here. Repsented are papers in New York, Detroit, Cleveland, Atlanta, Chicago, Pittsburgh . . . you name 'em and they're here. This must be the nonpariel of the bowls; at least, we could fill the stands with writers,

NORRIS ANDERSON
Orange Bowl Publicity Director

TV and radio alone if restraint was not put on the requests.

It is a night of memories. President John F. Kennedy, cigar and all, enjoying two of the games . . . Christman's icy magie . . . A squat package of football dynamite named Frankie Sinkwich . . . Oklahoma's quickie huddle and the flying feet of Tommy McDonald . . . Gnat-like Johnny Bosch flitting through a fine Missouri team . . . Clemson's Mr. Five-By-Five, Sterling Smith, trapping U-Miami's Frank Smith for a game-winning safety . . . Steve Van Buren, a symphony of speed and power . . . U-Miami's Al Hudson hot-footing to a game-tying victory as the final gun barked . . . Joe Namath, almost insolent in his deliberation, exuding danger despite that bum leg . . . So many flashbacks.

The heroes were many and there will be more. An all-time man of American legend is here tonight. He played The Big Game on a field named Iwo Jima.

When the Nebraska and Alabama teams arrived at Miami International Airport, they were greeted by a sign reading: "Welcome To The No. 1 Bowl Game".

A man of infinite wisdom wrote those words.

5 reasons why it pays to spend the rest of your life in Florida:

- You can spend the rest of your life retired in a tropical paradise.
- You can spend the rest of your life not worrying about paying state income taxes. There aren't any in Florida.
- You can spend the rest of your life getting a $5,000 yearly homestead exemption from the assessed valuation of the home you live in.
- You can spend the rest of your life knowing your estate won't be eaten up by extra taxes. Unlike most states, Florida has no inheritance taxes. When the estate of a Florida resident is settled, no more than the total amount of the federal estate tax is paid. If you leave a $500,000 estate, your heirs pay no additional state "death" tax.

In one eastern state they would have paid $24,400 extra. In a large western state, $12,250 extra. In a typical midwestern state, $33,800. In one New England state, $23,250. In Florida—nothing. What about your state?

Freedom from state income and inheritance taxes is guaranteed by the Florida Constitution. Florida residents would have to vote away this privilege in order to change things. That's not very likely, is it?

You can spend the rest of your life not worrying about the affairs of your estate...by doing business with the biggest bank in Florida.

The First National Bank of Miami has the largest and most experienced Personal Trust Department in Florida. We handle hundreds of sizeable trusts and estates every year. We act as executors, trustees, guardians of the property of minors or incompetents, custodians and investment advisors. (And we've gathered a staff of experts from all over the country to serve you. After all, you're not the only one who wants to spend the rest of his life in Florida.)

So come on down. But write us before you do and we'll send you a booklet that tells you more about the financial advantages of retiring in Florida. Send a card or letter to: Personal Trust Department, The First National Bank of Miami, 100 South Biscayne Boulevard, Miami, Florida 33131.

WHERE GREYHOUNDS RUN TRUER TO FORM

THE ORANGE BOWL REGATTA

...Something New

Someone once said, "... there's really nothing new under the Sun."

And in many cases that statement has a kernel of truth.

But not in the case of the Orange Bowl Regatta, the . world's biggest race-boat show which annually thrills spectators with the best in power-boat competition.

The Orange Bowl Regatta this season will open with "something new," the "250" Speed classic, a 250 mile marathon patterned after the Indianapolis 500. A product of two years of planning, the "250" Speed Classic will feature 40 of the world's fastest inboard runabouts racing the Miami Marine Stadium "long" course, the big two and a half mile oval off Rickenbacker Causeway.

The January 2 start is set for 11:00 A.M. with $7,000 to be awarded in cash prizes. Race-wise lap prizes of $50 to the leader of each of the 100 laps, the "250" Speed Classic will be the wildest, pure-speed, boat race ever staged.

The field of 40 invited drivers represents probably the best aggregation of racing talent ever assembled for one race. Several champions from American Power Boat Association hydroplane classes are represented and the list of names includes a driver or two from the "other world" of offshore powerboating.

The action-packed Orange Bowl Regatta program also includes the annual Nine Hour Endurance Race, January 8 and two days of Closed Course racing on the mile and two-thirds course, January 15 and 16th. In the latter, seven classes of inboard racing hydroplanes will compete along with the E & F service runabouts and ski racing runabouts.

In the Nine Hour, all manner of equipment will be on hand, service boats, maybe a hydro or two, many skiboats and outboards in a variety of classes and forms. Defending champion, Lou Brummett of Pasadena, California, is expected to head up the pack with his "Miss Mandella".

For the Closed Course events, this year's Grand Prix, the top event for limited hydros, promises to be the biggest yet. Defending champion, Bill Sterett of Owensboro, Kentucky, will be back with the 7 litre hydro he has driven to the title for the past two years using a supercharged Chrysler engine that heportedly puts out over 600 hp.

Sterrett is the 7 litre national champion and owns the world competition record of 93.072 mph.

A field of more than 25 of the fastest boats in the limited hydroplane classes are expected for the Grand Prix this year, in eluding the world straightaway record holder for 7 litres, Aubert Brillant. The Canadian millionaire set a new mark for the class last July on a Canadian lake of 153 plus miles an hour, and his gigantic boat, Canadian Grand Prix, is expected to provide considerable competition for Sterett in this year's event.

While the spotlight shines brightly on the Grand Prix, the other six classes of inboard hydros are just as illustrious. A field of nearly 150 of the nation's top equipment will be on hand to race hydros in 48 cubic inch, 91 cubic inch, 150 cubic inch, 225 cubic inch, 266 cubic inch and 280 cubic inch sizes. The entries are liberally sprinkled with national champions, world record holders on straightaway and closed course and defending champs in the Orange Bowl Regatta,

The Marine Stadium is located on Rickenbacker Causeway just off U. S. 1 South of downtown Miami. Tickets can be purchased at the gate, or at the Orange Bowl ticket officeat the Stadium.

The 1965 Tide—Quick Small and Mean

By JIMMY BURNS, Miami Herald Sports Editor

"You're never beaten until the clock runs out!"

This is the football philosophy of Paul (Bear) Bryant who sends his Southeastern conference championship Alabama team against unbeaten Nebraska in the 32nd Orange Bowl game here tonight.

The Bama players share their coach's belief which is why you can be sure of an exciting, competitive bowl football game when Bama is involved.

Bama's Crimson Tide is back here for the third time in four years. Bryant's team beat Oklahoma here in the 1963 Orange Bowl game, 17-0, and last Jan. I lost to Texas, 21-17, when the clock ran out after the Longhorns had staged a tremendous goal line stand to thwart Bama. Crippled Joe Namath had come off the bench to spark a rally, and Joe and the Tidesmen came within inches and seconds of making good.

Football fans who saw the game in person and millions of television watchers, hailed the Texas-Bama game as one of the greatest ever played in any bowl.

Alabama started the 1965 season by providing another terrific TV football spectacle in losing to Georgia, 18-17. It was a spectacular and controversial pass-and-lateral play in the last two minutes which gave Georgia a 73-yard scoring jaunt by Bob Taylor.

More mellow than in his carlier coaching days, Bryant has stead-fastly refrained from commenting on the loss. Bryant has changed in many ways and although his moods are lighter, the fierce desire to win still exists.

The clock can out on Alabama's efforts to salvage the Georgia game with a 42-yard field goal attempt by David Ray.

Down through the years writers and others have thought up a lot of "Bear" stories about Bryant. Now some say that Bryant thinks up "bear" stories too.

John Underwood expressed this opinion in a Sports Illustrated article about the Auburn game, last of the season, which Alabama won, 30-3, to make the Orange Bowl people happier.

Bryant says that one night after the Georgia game, he dropped his car keys in a campus parking lot and was down on all fours trying to find them when he heard two co-eds passing comments on his

One of them (Bryant's words again) said, "Look at that. He loses one lousy game and right away he turns into an idiot.'

Actually what Bryant turned into was a more demanding coach and his Crimson Tide surged to four straight victories before having to settle for a 7-7 tie with Tennessee. Once again the clock ran out on the Tide which had three costly fumbles in the second half after tying the score in the second quarter.

Steve Stoan Lunges Across L.S.U. Defensive Effort

Bryant had announced that he did not have enough good football players to two-platoon, so he was going to drop that system.

Later, I mentioned this to Ralph (Shug) Jordan, Auburn coach, and Shug said, "That isn't what my scouts tell me. They say Bryant is still two-platooning and winning."

When the season ended, Bryant commented, "We're as good as anybody" - a declaration which was reassuring to the Orange Bowl sponsors who want another rip rearing New Year's night game although they hardly hope to have the past one eclipsed.

Bryant isn't too free with superlatives in discussing his football players, so his comments about quarterback Steve Sloan and center Paul Crane.

"Sloan is the most accurate passer in the nation," says Bryant. Steve ranked only 26th in the nation, but his passing was largely responsible for Alabama winding up with an 8-1-1 record. Sloan completed 97 of 160 passes for eleven touchdowns - nine of them in the last five games. This explains why Bryant says that his team will do a lot of throwing tonight.

Concerning Crane, 6-2, 188-pounder, Bryant declared," Paul is the best offensive center I have ever had in-21 years as a head coach. And I've had some good Crane is so valuable that Bryant uses him both on offense and as a linebacker. He fills the latter role particularly when the going looks tough for Bama.

When C. Jackson Baldwin, Orange Bowl game selection chairman, first started scouting the Tide, he reported this was the smallest Alabama team he'd even seen. But Jack noted that the Crimson Tide was quick and mobile.

Statistics show that it was one of the finest offensive teams in Crimson Tide football history, evidenced by 13 team and individual records being broken.

Along with Sloan, fullback Steve Bowman has been a standout on offense, leading the Southeastern conference in rushing with 770 net yards on 153 tries. Bowman's gains were mainly over a route cleared by Cecil Dowdy, one of the greatest blockers,

I have been following Alabama since the early 20's and am well aware that under Bryant and his coaching predecessors the school has gone first class in football.

This is particularly true under Bryant, best described by the title, "Winning Isn't Everything - but it beats anything that comes in second", used by Benny Marshall for his book on Bryant.

The Bear is quite a coach and quite a man.

Significance of a Symbol

Good symbols are more than mere artistic designs. They comprise elements depicting the spirit and character of the organizations they represent.

So it is with the new symbol of FIRST FEDERAL Savings and Loan Association of Miami.

The numeral "1" not only indicates the fact that FIRST FEDERAL was granted the nation's first federal savings and loan charter of which there are now nearly 2,000, but that it is today first in size in the south and, indeed, the eighth largest in the nation. The eagle and the stars symbolize the protection guaranteed savers by an agency of the federal government.

In essence, it is a symbol of leadership based on the founding principles which have guided FIRST FEDERAL's prudent management through the years. It is a significant symbol—to the men and women who are First Federal...and to the community they serve.

FIREWORKS PAGEANT A FAMILY FUNFEST

By LOLA CHERSON

Orange Bowl Assistant Publicity Director

Mark off the evening of Friday, January 7, on your calendar and get set for a show that combines all the excitement and pageantry of the 32nd Annual Orange Bowl Festival.

That night the Orange Bowl Stadium will be the hottest place in town as the annual Fireworks Pageant is presented to the delight of approximately 30,000 spectators including children of all ages.

It will be "the most dazzling" Pageant in Orange Bowl history, according to E. E. Seiler, executive vice president, who knows what he's talking about, having been in on the inception of the first such event.

Close your eyes for a moment, and try to imagine a fireworks display that covers the entire north side of the stadium and you'll have some idea of the treat in store for you.

Better than imagining the display is coming to see it in person and the Fireworks Pageant has long been one of the most attractively priced bargains in the Orange Bowl list of events.

Traditionally scheduled for Friday evening, so that children may attend, Fireworks tickets are priced at $2.00, $1.75 and $1.50, well withing the range of everyone.

The Fireworks display will be presented by Zambelli Fireworks Manufacturing Co., Inc. of New Castle, Pennsylvania. They performed for President Lyndon B. Johnson at the Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, Virginia and at the Washington Monument.

A Complete Roundup

In addition to the fireworks display, the Pageant includes all of the floats in the King Orange Jamboree Parade, a repeat performance of the halftime show of the Orange Bowl Classic and the massed bands of several Miami high schools.

Highlight of the float presentation will be the ten theme floats of the Orange Bowl Committee which this year are dedicated to the "Era of Golden Fantasies".

The most spectacular Queen's float in Orange Bowl history will be proudly ridden by the 1966 Queen, Helen Grossman, a 19 year-old junior at the University of Miami. Her Court of four Princesses consists of identical twins Gene and Laura Beckwith, also students at UM, and two students at Miami-

Dade Junior College, Elizabeth Jevnaas and Patsy Mackin.

And, of course, the culmination of the evening is the 30-minute fireworks display.

You can purchase tickets to the Fireworks Pageant, and all remaining Orange Bowl events, at the following locations:

Gate Seven, Orange Bowl Stadium; Florida Power & Light Co., 275 Alhambra Circle, Coral Gables; University of Miami ticket office, 228 S. E. First Street; Rite-Way Shoe Repair, 20245 South Dixie Highway; The Pace Setter, 1220 N. E. 163rd Street; North Miami Beach; Mercantile Bank, 420 Lincoln Road, Miami Beach and in Fort Lauderdale at Florida Power & Light Co., 300 N. E. Third Street.

All the pageantry of the Orange Bowl Festival will be presented at the Fireworks Display, where you'll have chance to see everything but football. And you'll be able to see that on Sunday, January 9, when two great pro teams battle in the sixth annual National Football League Pro Plavoff Classic.

This nation's heartland is so rich, so thick with natural treasures, that only the master tillers raise crops that catch attention among all the corn, beans, wheat, football players, sugar beets and other goodies that sprout so freely for almost any man with the right brand of fertilizer.

But such a master is Bob Devaney; no football producer active today has accomplished more in a comparable period. Amiable, the antithesis of the driver type, Devaney has progressed steadily after a modest beginning and this Nebraska team — admittedly his finest yet — won all of its 10 games in the 1965 season.

The way hardly was easy for Bob, however, for he started the college game as an end at a place called Alma College, in Michigan, and then coached at somewhat modest institutions like the high schools at Big Beaver, Keego Harbor, Saginaw and Alpena before Biggie Munn added him to Munn's brilliant staff at Michigan State.

From there, the industrious, quick-witted Devaney went out to the University of Wyoming as head coach where, in five years, his teams won 35 games, lost 10 and tied five — plenty of record, indeed, for Nebraska's hard-put chiefs to notice;

They Husk More Than Corn

By MORRIS McLEMORE

Miami News Sports Editor

the Cornhuskers were out at the seams and their recruitment program a shambles when Devaney was brought in for the 1962 season and won his first, six games.

It was this Nebraska team that went on to defeat Miami, 36-34, in one of the memorable battles of our time — the Gotham Bowl game in which George Mira was at his superlative best but still couldn't strangle the big, resourceful lads coached by Bob Devaney.

In brief, the remarkable string of successes by his teams gives Devaney the best victory rate among active college coaches, for his teams have accumulated 73 victories, with 15 defeats and five ties — a sizzling .880 percent . . . While the schedule of the Cornhuskers occasionally can be argued about, what Devaney's teams do with it cannot. The totals at Nebraska are 38-5-0.

The team that meets Alabama tonight is replete with extraordinary people who seem to run faster, hit harder and loom larger than almost anybody — with the possible exception of Bear Bryant's own superb troopers.

Walter Barnes, the great middle guard, is so big that even the official Nebraska roster says he puts 252 pounds on a six-foot, three-inch frame; Barnes made all the All-American teams that count and the two sparkling ends, Freeman White and Tony Jeter, were listed on top ones, too . . . Larry Wacholtz, the safety man, also got considerable attention from national honor team pickers.

These, with Laverne Allers, guard; Dennis Carlson, tackle; Fullback Frank Solich and Linebacker Mike Kennedy, were Big Eight all-star team members last fall.

But the real strength of Devaney's Nebraska teams springs from the depth of his squads, the two-deep or more at every position; this depth is the despair of the enemy, week after week, year after year.

This is the fourth straight bowl trip for the four Nebraska teams coached by Devaney and there's no obvious chance that the string will be broken any time soon.

And this is the second time he has brought a team to the Orange Bowl. Nebraska defeated Auburn in a furious scuffle, 13-7, in the 1964 game here, which might lead some people to suggest Alabama might be seeking revenge for Auburn tonight.

Obviously, these people haven't been in Birmingham when these state teams meet in November.

30 Nations Represented At O. B. Junior Tennis

By S. W. MATTHEWS Miami Beach News Bureau

Vacationers who enjoy tennis can watch play in the world's most representative international junior tournament over the Christmas-New Year holidays at Miami Beach's Flamingo park courts.

Inaugurated in 1948, the Orange Bowl Junior Championships this year will draw an entry list of 18-and-under net stars from at least 30 countries. Competition will be in boys and girls 18-and-under, 16-and-under and 14-and-under divisions with the boys-18 draw of 104 players attracting by far the most interest.

The winner of this division in the past has come from as far away as Australia and the present champion, who will be back to defend this year, is Marcelo Lara of Mexico.

Blocking Lara's chances of repeating will be such netters as the United States junior champ, Bob Lutz of Los Angeles; Bill Harris of West Palm Beach, the Florida No. 1 junior; Garry Penberthy and Ian Fletcher of Australia; Pat Cramer of Johannesburg, South Africa; Marco Gilardelli of Italy and Jairo Velasco,

This list of course is but partially complete. Junior tennis has a habit of producing upsets. Predictions are made even more difficult by the fact many of the young players coming here have never before competed against opponents from other than their own continents.

. How, for example, does one rate the Japanese who have never played away from Japan, or the Indians who have never competed out of India?

Other factors that will give Dale Lewis, tournament director, trouble in his seedings will be the acclimatization difficulties some will experience, and the differences in surfaces of the Flamingo park courts to boys accustomed to playing on wood, grass or cement.

The clay-composition at Flamingo is much slower than the other surfaces and thwarts even the best adults until they become accustomed to the change.

Of one thing spectators can be sure: if they watch the play in the Orange Bowl Juniors they can say of some of the brightest stars in Davis Cup, Wimbledon and Forest Hills circles — "I saw him when." For the youngsters here will include many of the best prospects for such net classics in the next two to four years.

This even is true of the girls. For example, Maria Bueno's first international tourney was the Orange Bowl. A few years later she was Wimbledon queen.

Top U. S. players in the younger divisions also will be on hand. Little Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., titleholder in both the girls-18 and girls-16 brackets will be in action here again. Zan Guerry of Chattanooga, boys-16 champion, is entered as is Dickie Stockton, Garden City, N. Y., boys-14 champ.

Admission to the Orange Bowl tournament is free. Visitors will find seating in bleachers along three courts, where every effort will be made to schedule what should be the best matches of the day.

Flamingo park tennis center is just north of 11th Street and two blocks east of Alton Road.

lions have in the past and, we are confident, will continue to in the future.

1966 will be a special year for Miami Beach. As our 50th anniversary celebration draws to a close, we embark on our second half-century with pride that our young community has, in such a short time, become recognized as the world's greatest resort city . . and we look forward to the future with fond anticipation.

Indeed, much has happened here in the past five decades, bringing us to the crossroads of maturity. 'I oday, the face of Miami Beach is changing, and we invite you to share with us that change.

No longer shall we say to our visitors, "Enjoy yourselves . . . return again soon," Instead, we say,

"Stay with us . . . enjoy yourselves always." For while Miami Beach has long been a wonderful place to vacation, we believe it is an even better place to live.

The miracle of jet travel now makes us neighbors to New York, Chicago or any of the nation's great metropolises. Many a traveler who used to visit here once a year now makes the sojourn far more often.

And while Miami Beach is renowned far and wide for its luxury hotels, it also is no secret that here are the finest apartment facilities to be found anywhere, with some 35,000 units of a variety to suit any need.

Whether one's desire be a plush oceanfront high-rise or cozy, compact quarters within walking distance of shopping areas and public transportation, we have it to offer.

Of course, the glamorous night life of our city gleams brighter than ever before. But Miami Beach also has emerged as a growing center of culture, with a year-'round program of symphony concerts, opera and legitimate theater.

Our public high school, one of the nation's most modern, has within the past three years been complemented by a new Miami Beach Public Library, the municipally-operated Bass Museum of Art and the Miami Beach Garden Center and Conservatory . . . opening new avenues of literary and aesthetic expression by our youngsters, Yet with all this change, Miami Beach remains the place where springtime is permanent. The warmth and freshness of May is with us throughout the year.

Small wonder, then, that we now enter the era of the "workation" . . . wherein countless numbers of Americans are combining the leisures of Miami Beach living with their businesses and professions.

Some have become long-distance a commuters, at least enabling their families to escape winter's wrath. Others are discovering new economic opportunity right here, in our growing television, motion picture and light industrial industries.

Those of us who have grown up with Miami Beach long have realized the advantages life here has to offer. We are gratified so many others are joining us with each passing day.

Won't you be our partner in progress? We'd like to share it with you.

This aerial view of Miami Beach's bayfront and charming Belle Isle reveals a sampling of the choice apartment accommodations, both low and high-rise, available by month, season or year.

Hayes and the Cowboys Hope To Harness The Colts

Superman can fly like a bird. Bobby Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys can do it on land. In fact, he creates more excitement on the football field than a convoy of astronauts.

The former Olympia sprint champion and world record-holder for the 100-yard dash (09.1) will be conspicuously present with the Dallas Cowboys against the Baltimore Colts in the National Football League Pro Playoff Classic, Jan. 9, in this integral part of the Orange Bowl Festival.

Hayes, Jacksonville native and Florida A. & M. graduate, won't just be flying for the Cowboys. He will also be catching passes, running back punts and (he and the Cowboys hope) scoring touchdowns.

Anyway you look at it, this 190-pound athlete exudes sparks on a football field.

Bobby had one of the most outstanding rookie years in the history of the National Football League. The three major accomplishments of the Cowboy, who can outrun his horse:

He led the NFL in average gain per catch with 21.8 yards. These include clutch catches of 65 and 33 yards in the game that won the Pro Playoff bid for the Cowboys.

He was second in the league with 13 touchdowns which was also the second best rookie scoring record in NFL history. (Gayle Sayers of the Bears broke the rookie record with 22.)

He was the first rookie since Mike Ditka of the Bears to gain more than 1,000 yards on pass receptions. He finished with 1,003 yards.

Hayes operates behind one of the league's best lines. Buddy Dial, another great receiver, detracts from those who cover Bobby too closely.

Don Meredith, the quarterback, throws well both long and short. He tossed the clutch ones to Hayes in the stretch run of the season.

Bob Lilly of the Cowboys is a perennial All-Pro lineman. Robert weighs 270 and likes to hit. You get the idea.

The Florida-bred whiz and Lenny Moore of the Colts will lock up in one of all-time Orange Bowl speed duels. It is the classic example of the old pro with all of the moves, Moore, against the upcoming meteor, Hayes.

Both have exalted company in the likes of Raymond Berry, Bob Boyd, John Mackey, All-Pro Jimmy Orr, Steve Stonebreaker and a host of others.

If there is a better defensive back in the league than Boyd, let him be named.

Berry is an all-time great pass-catching end, one of the league's most exciting people. Just watching him run a pass pattern is an education in offensive end play.

Mackey weighs 215 pounds and runs the 100 in :09.8. He is fast enough to outrun 'em and strong enough to break tackles. Orr catches the long bomb, also the short one where he can turn on the speed that made him an outstanding Georgia halfback.

Blocking for Moore will be one of the most vicious cleanup guys in the league, 290pound Jim Parker, a perennial All-Pro choice. He has efficient companions.

The Playoff Bowl, an integral part of the OB Festival, has grown from an audience of 28,362 in 1961 to 56,218 last year. Why not? It's a nevermiss show, laced with one of Ernie Seiler's tremendous half-time extravaganzas.

FROM COFFEE BREAKS TO PAR BREAKERS

By MARTY ROSEN, City of Coral Gables

Over a cup of coffee, an international sports event was born.

Ernie Seiler, executive vice president of the Orange Bowl Committee, was meeting with Mort Guilford, Jr., then president of the Junior Orange Bowl Committee, and between sips came up with one of the incredible ideas he's noted for.

"Why don't you hold a golf tournament?" Seiler asked.

Guilford carried the suggestion to fellow committeemen in Coral Gables — home of the junior activities which include football, tennis, a spectacular parade and queen's ball. Coral Gables becomes a "Land of Ahs" annually during its junior-in-name-only festival. Naturally, the Orange Bowl wanted only a big tournament with a national flavor, he explained.

When Bill Kerdyk was named chairman, all he could promise was, "Fll work hard to get top players." But even Kerdyk, and his co-chairman, Bob Hildreth, in their most optimistic moments never thought they'd lure the outstanding fields that they have, in the last two years.

A total of 111 golfers, representing 13 states, competed in the inaugural, won by Richard Spears, of Port Jervis, N.Y. Spears, the 17-year-old Metropolitan New York titleholder, refused to crack under pressure, and with only three days' practice, shot a one over par 71-72—143 over the Biltmore Golf Course links to capture the title. Coming up fast, but running out of holes to play was runnerup Hal Hutchinson, Deerfield Beach, with a 76-69—145. The 69 was a tournament record.

Spears turned 18 on New Year's Day, two days after the inaugural, and became ineligible to defend his title. The win was highly profitable for the youngster however, as he was offered a golf scholarship to the University of Florida following his victory here, and he quickly accepted.

The tournament, that was national in '64, became international in '65 as more than 160 of the world's best swarmed onto Biltmore for the competition.

The amazingly fine field included six youngsters from abroad and others from 26 states plus Washington, D.C. No less than nine were scratch (even par players). Entries had to be cut off more than eight weeks before the tournament dates as the field filled to overflowing.

The event marked the U.S. debut of South Africa's Bobby Cole—the heralded Gary Player protege who breaks par when he's not averaging it. He recently captured the South African amateur title with a five-under-68 and plans to use the Junior Orange Bowl event as a springboard to major American and European amateur tournaments.

Also participating were Australia's Marcel Fastier — from Miami, on the east coast of the "Down Under" continent; Canada's David Windsor; Trinidad's Stephen Marshall and Jamaica's Allan Sturdy and Hugh Urquhart. Little Windsor, only 10 years of age, was determined to play and came all the way from Capetown, Ontario by himself.

Windsor wasn't the youngest participant. That honor went to eight-year-old Brian Every, of Ormond Beach, Fla. Brian joined his two "veteran" brothers—Kelly, nine, and Scott, 12, in the competition: These boys weren't competing with the older ones as action was held in four divisions-11 and under; 12-13; 14-15 and 16-17. The tournament consisted of 36 holes, medal play, for all but the youngest group which played 18. In addition to the Gary Player Cup, which went to the overall champion, trophies went to the winners, runnersup and third place finisher in each division.

Tournament officials and Junior Orange Bowl President Bill Swain are making bigger and better plans for the '66 event and readers are asked to contact the Golf Committee at P. O. Box 309, Coral Gables, Fla. 33134, if you know of outstanding young golfers in your part of the nation (or world). Though the second annual tournament only finished two days ago, the search is on for an even better field for the Dec. 28-30, 1966 renewal.

Miami, Winter Sports Capital of America by LEW PRICE

Sports events play a major role in attracting large numbers of visitors to the Greater Miami area the year-a round.

There's enough athletic variety to please all.

The Orange Bowl Festival, however, is the highlight of the year's activities. It not only means the best in entertainment during the holiday season but also sells Miami to the world

It is estimated that 200 million people throughout the world have heard of the Festival. This has been achieved through a cumulative process over the years via the media of newspapers, television, magazines, radio and newsreel. It is not inconceivable, in this age, that perhaps the message will be carried to the moon.

Of this multi-million total, approximately a half million are on the Miami scene during the Pestival period. Some 40 million people saw last year's Classic, held at night for the first time, on national television in color. The Pro Playoff, Regatta and parade also were on national TV.

The Department of Publicity and Tourism either sponsored or gave concentrated coverage to some 300 special projects in the area, with many of them falling into the sports category. With our wonderful climate and sensational schedule of events, we accepted the challenge of promoting these ingredients.

Another key event is the National Baseball Players Golf Tournament, which the City of Miami sponsors, for the major league players in February.

Can you imagine what a picture of Mickey Mantle in shirt-sleeves playing golf looks like in a newspaper in the North in mid-February when those people look out the window and see it's snowing?

The City, through our department, also sponsors 10 regattas a year—again to publicize our weather and multi-million dollar boating industry.

Too, we welcome the Miam Dolphins, new addition to the American Football League, with their added TV exposure for the area.

All of these promotions pay off in attracting great numbers of visitors to our area.

To emphasize the importance of tourism, it is estimated that two dozen visitors a day benefit a community as much as a factory with an annual payroll of $100,000. And jobs stemming from tourism—mainly in services—aren't likely to be automated out of existence.

In Dade County, tourism comprises about 63 per cent of our economy with six million tourists coming here annually from all over the world and spending nearly one billion dollars. In addition they contributed $10 million to the tax structure and approximately 20 per cent of our state taxes.

LEW PRICE

Director, Miami-Metro Department of Publicity and Tourism

It is estimated that each visitor, on an average, spends $14 a day while here and stays 11 days. So you can see these events can—and do—mean a lot to our area.

Publicizing the Orange Bowl Festival is a year-'round job. We produce films, in conjunction with the Orange Bowl Committee, of all Festival activities, that are eicculated to professional and trade organizations, conventions and service groups all over the nation throughout the year.

Brochures, releases, photographs and advertisements are designed to stimulate long-range interest in the Orange Bowl. Last month, two outstanding football games attracted great interest and were publicized. The two were the Shrine North-South College All-Star football game with two teams of All-Americas and the Orange Blossom Classic featuring Florida A & M University. From September through early December, the University of Miami footballers are in the spotlight.

The University of Miami's basketball team is in the midst of an outstanding inter-sectional schedule.

In February is the $35,000 Hialeah-Miami Professional Bowling Tournament. Spring spotlights the Baltimore Orioles as they train for the upcoming American League season. Exhibition games are played against the top clubs in both leagues.

Another top event is the Doral Open Golf Tournament March 10-13, in which all of the players of the pro tour participate. In April is the International Soccer Tournament while in July the Bowling Tournament of the Americas is staged.

For many, the magnet that brings them here is pari-mutuel sports. Greyhound racing is staged almost every night of the year while from November through April is thoroughbred and harness horse racing and jai-alai.

Boxing and wrestling matches are held throughout the year as well as a full schedule of University of Miami, Miami-Dade Junior College and high school sports events.

Many visitors are attracted to the area because they can participate in activities the year-'round due to the balmy climate. Excellent facilities—especially 31 golf courses—for all forms of outdoor activity, await the vacationer.

But having induced travelers to come here, we don't stop short in our treatment of them as our guests. We spread the gospel of Courtesy to Visitors so that our image as a friendly and hospitable resort center is maintained.

Thus do sports, such as this great game here tonight, and tourism complement each other to make Miami the resort capital.
